Library is Calling All Teens

By Jean Perry

Taber Library Director Libby O' Neill is hoping to devise a future lineup of teen-centric events to draw more of them in to take advantage of all that the library has to offer. What they need first, though, are some suggestions from the local teenage cohort.

"We are really trying to get more school-aged kids to come into the library," said O' Neill. "We hope to have a lot more programs for them coming up."

The library hosted an afternoon program of henna painting on March 1 with Heather Cault-Nulton, professional henna artist, who gave each guest their own henna tattoo.

The art of henna has been practiced for over 5,000 years in countries like India, Pakistan, and in regions of Africa and the Middle East.

The paint is derived from Lawsonia inermis, known as the henna tree, mignonette tree, or Egyptian privet, a flowering plant of over 12 feet high. Historically, the paint has been used for body adornment, sunblock, a topical skin ointment, and its cooling properties in hot desert regions.

The paint stains the skin for one to three weeks and is safe to use, being vegetable-based and natural.

"It's quite popular," said O' Neill. "We had about 13 people, which is great, and we really don't get teens into the library all that often."

Those 13 teens, said O' Neill, were a pretty good

The art of henna dates back thousands of years and has recently grown in popularity. Old Colony Robotics Tries For National Slot

By Marilou Newell

The Old Colony Regional Vocational Technical High School's Robotics Club has been working diligently for months in preparation for the Southern New England VEX Robotics Competition. The event was hosted at Quinsigamond Community College in Worcester on March 5 and 6.

OCRVTHS students John Barns, Ben Jenson, Jesse Goodwin, Jasper Tan, Tanner Safford, Nickolaus Smith, along with teacher and advisor Dan Brush, successfully qualified in January, launching them and their metallic creation a little closer towards the possibility of attending the world championship to be held in Louisville,

I have 3 cats and one of them isn't using the litter box consistently. I clean the box every few days and have a covered box nicely enclosed in a closet. Is one of my cats sick?

It's amazing that your cats have put up with your litter box behavior. There should be 1 box per indoor cat so you need 2 more boxes. The boxes should be cleaned daily at the very least. Cats in general do not like covered boxes. Get rid of the cover. Cats also prefer boxes to be as out in the open as possible so they don't feel trapped going in or out. There should be 2 or 3 ways for the cat to get out of the box. In general, cats prefer clumping litter as well. Stay with one that works and don't get fooled into buying what ever is on sale.

Only a few days before the regional Worcester event, they explained the robot's technical capabilities.

The students were given an objective, a goal, a task that their robot must be able to complete. For this event, the robots must be able to launch balls into a net, grab orbs from the playing surface that will give their team extra points, and partner with another team's robot by coupling the devices in synchronized movement while also fending off their opponent's attempts to do the same.

In order to accomplish this, the team starts at the end and works backwards or as they emphasized, "we reverse engineer the robot."

Engineering is indeed what these students must do in order to create a fully functioning robot and considering that this is the first full year for the robotics club, their uphill journey pits them against larger schools with seasoned teams.

One critical element that is a requirement of the competition is to keep a journal, or log, that details every single task and problem-solving necessity the team worked through during the development of the robot. This journal, Brush said, constitutes a significant number of points the students must earn. Their ability to transcribe the involved steps they powered through in order to build the robot and then have it function with pinpoint accuracy fell to senior and team captain Smith.

Throughout the development of the project, the team had to consistently solve engineering problems from the design process through the actual building of the robot.

They did not work in a vacuum, however. Like many of the programs OCRVTHS offers their students, cross pollination of shop talents is required to get a task done. In the case of the robotics team, they leaned on carpentry, machine, graphics, as well as the electrical engineering shops.

As Sunday, March 6 came to a close, Brush said during a telephone interview, "It was really good ... what we accomplished this year is amazing." He continued, "The competition was tough, some schools had a lot of financial resources."

And although this team won't be advancing, Brush said, "We are not stopping." He said that the students had to face lots of trial and error episodes throughout the weekend, but "they were determined to make the most of the experience."

"The students learned more this weekend than they ever would in regular class," Brush shared. "This was our

Open Space Integration, Consolidation in Marion

By Jean Perry

The Master Plan process in Marion has shifted into 'open space mode' and how to manage open space properties in the future.

Currently, a number of different entities acquire and oversee open space parcels, evidenced by a recent map of Marion that resembles a patchwork blanket of sorts showing which entities are responsible for which parcels. With a new Master Plan in the works, the Town could seek to consolidate the parcels and form a stewardship over all town-owned lands instead of the piecemeal state it is in now.

The Sippican Lands Trust, Marion Open Spaces Acquisition Commission, Conservation Commission, and Recreation Department, among other entities, all manage different parcels of protected land based on the characteristics of the land and their particular intended uses. What a joint meeting of these groups on March 7 is debating now is whether to continue in this way or strive for cohesion.

But first, the group aims to answer a few of its own questions – what do we have now, what is it used for, who manages it, and what do we want to do with it?

"This is just the beginning," said Margie Baldwin, member of the Tree and Parks Committee and head of this Master Plan open spaces subcommittee.

The group discussed the criteria for acquiring chosen properties – whether the lands would be contiguous, recreation, forestland protection, aquifer protection – and how to assess their management and the acquisition of parcels in the future.

"[Aquifer protection] is one of our tops," said MOSAC and Pathways Committee Chairman John Rockwell. During a past survey, Rockwell said aquifer protection was the top concern of residents when it came to MOSAC land acquisition.

Rockwell supports releasing a new survey to gather input from residents for the open spaces section of the Master Plan, since the last survey was conducted in 2011. He said a survey conducted five years ago would only provide the town with obsolete information.

"We looked at our 2011 ... results and said, you know, a lot of this stuff no one is listening to," said Rockwell. "You can't really listen to old surveys because they're so old."

Baldwin, Conservation Commission Chairman Norm Hills, and Music Hall Advisory Committee and Tree & Parks Committee member Tinker Saltonstall all either opposed a new survey or preferred to hold-off on the survey for now, calling it premature.

For the time being, the group plans to hold a series of open workshops for public input and discuss their own concerns and ideas during meetings such as this one.

The group's goals are to make the most of the town's open space lands, increase public access and awareness of them, and possibly form a parks system within the town under the stewardship of one town entity.

One fundamental question remains: Does the town want to develop these properties as recreational or does it simply want to preserve them?

"Do you want a public works [entity] or do you want a park system in town?" asked Jonathan Howland of the SLT. "Because it's two different things. I think it would be great if this town had a park system.

It's all good, said Baldwin, but how do we bring that cohesive effort together, she asked.

With so many unanswered questions, the group tasked Rockwell and SLT President Chris Bryant to sort through the properties and come up with descriptions for each of them to form a solid inventory.

The open spaces Master Plan subcommittee will meet again on March 21 at 5:00 pm at the Marion Town House to review the information and continue discussions.

FinCom Closes in on Budget Deficit

Marion Finance Committee

By Jean Perry

Looking over the printed spreadsheets and draft budget summaries, the Marion Finance Committee on March 2 saw some progress in closing in on the half million-dollar shortfall in the fiscal year 2017 budget.

Since the committee's last meeting, the deficit had decreased somewhat due to a withdrawal from the town's overlay account (municipal cash reserve). Chairman Alan Minard said $100,000 of the overlay account has been added to the town's operating budget to bring the balance of that account down to $200,000 and lowering the budget down to about the same.

"So you can see that things have improved," said Minard. "Now we're about $198,000 on the hook at this point, which is still far too much in the hole for this time of the year."

State aid numbers have yet to be released and Minard said the Assessor's Office still could allow for an additional $25,000 from the overlay account.

Minard mentioned utilizing some free cash as well while keeping that sum low so as not to affect the town's AAA bond rating.

"We can breathe a little easier because things have gotten a bit better," said Minard, "but we still have work to do.”

Also during the meeting, the committee talked briefly about providing the school district with a final approved number for its FY17 budget, which is much anticipated according to Finance Committee member Karen Kevelson who attended the school budget subcommittee meeting earlier in the day.

Kevelson said the school district is anxiously waiting for budget approval but, as Kevelson explained, the district was disappointed when Kevelson had no number to give them as of yet.

“I was thrown into the lion’s den,” said Kevelson who attended the school meeting alone.

Last month, Kevelson harshly criticized the Sippican School FY17 budget, which prompted several defensive letters to the editor in local news publications by school committee members and the community.

“It was awful,” said Kevelson. “All the cold stares....” She said they are eager to hear a number knowing that they will have to make adjustments based on that number.

The Finance Committee gives the final amount; however, as Minard pointed out, it does not suggest where cuts should be made or how to spend the money.

The FY17 Sippican School budget is up $396,000 at this point, totaling $6,031,000, according to Minard.

Minard said the use of circuit breaker funds (reimbursement from the state for unexpected high costs in special education) for the special education budget is still up in the air. The SpEd budget increased 11.3 percent this year, and Minard said he is hoping the school will offset the SpEd budget with some circuit breaker money, a practice school administrators are hoping to avoid.

“If we can get some relief on the special education, we can be more generous on the regular day,” Minard said.

The committee motioned to grant Minard authority to issue an approved amount to the schools once he receives the remaining information he needs to form one.

The next meeting of the Marion Finance Committee is scheduled for March 9 at 6:30 pm at 13 Atlantis Drive.

Bay Club Covenant Modified

Mattapoisett Planning Board

By Marilou Newell

During the March 7 meeting of the Mattapoisett Planning Board, members signed covenant modifications to The Bay Club's recent trash agreement with the Town. Clearing this hurdle allows the subdivision association to seek inclusion in public trash collection from the Board of Health.

In recent months, the Planning Board has been under pressure from at least two other residential associations to make modifications to their covenants with the Town – modifications that would allow them to request from the Board of Health trash collection as part of the Town's contract with ABC Disposal.

Prior to the changes, these residential covenants routinely included text excluding them from the town's trash collection contract, which placed the financial burden of trash collection squarely on the residents living in such developments.

The Village at Mattapoisett located off Route 6 was the first to receive an addendum to their covenant. Daniel de Luz, an outspoken proponent and resident of the complex, was successful in his bid to make covenant changes when he found that the Town's contract with the disposal service provider included the language "that all residents shall," making the subdivision entitled to trash collection.

After consulting with town counsel, the Planning Board, with the assistance of member Nathan Ketchel, drafted language that would clear the way for private subdivisions to approach the Board of Health seeking trash collection inclusion.

Next came Brandt Point Village, a single-family housing subdivision located off Brandt Island Road requesting the same modification. That request eventually received approval as well. Now it was The Bay Club's turn.

On this night, Planning Board Chairman Tom Tucker noted again, as he had in previous meetings, that the Planning Board was not approving trash collection per se, but instead simply making language changes that allowed the residential associations to approach the Board of Health for approval.

Ketchel's verbiage, as accepted by the Planning Board and vetted by town counsel, includes text specifying that the addendums would be voided if trash collection costs increased by adding these residential associations to the Town's disposal contract.

During the informal discussion segment of the evening's agenda, Joseph Furtado, owner and developer of the Brandt Point Village subdivision, accompanied by attorney Jack McGreen, requested the board's consideration of a tri-party agreement that would allow a cash surety on Phase 2 of the development.

Furtado has been a principal in the development for about a year, but found it difficult to move the project forward into Phase 2 due to incompleteness of Phase 1 by the previous developer.

Such items as unsatisfactory roadways, problems with stormwater management systems, and conservation issues have plagued both the town and the residents prior to Furtado's involvement with the project. For his part, Furtado had during previous hearings with the Planning Board given his word that all Phase 1 items would be satisfied before Phase 2 would begin.

And it was his word that carried weight with Tucker on March 7.

"Mr. Furtado has given us his word and we are going to get a financial agreement," Tucker said.

The tri-party financial arrangement, as explained by Planning Board member John Mathieu, "allows the lender to hold construction funds which the town can access if the work isn't done." This new financial agreement with the town and the lender will allow Phase 2 to begin now.

Furtado will return to the Planning Board on March 21 for a public hearing and to complete the new surety agreement.

The next meeting of the Mattapoisett Planning Board is scheduled for March 21 at 7:00 pm in the Mattapoisett Town Hall conference room.

Rochester Center Solar Project Slogs On

Rochester Planning Board

By Jean Perry

There were twists and turns during discussions, then stretches and yawns by the time the Rochester Planning Board meeting surpassed the two-hour mark on March 8 during the continued public hearing for Renewable Generation, LLC's public hearing for its solar farm project slated for the town center.

Engineer Stephen O'Connell stood alone against the board and a roomful of residents, with no other representatives present on behalf of the applicant. Things started smoothly, though, with O'Connell going over plan compliance after receiving comments from the town's engineer Ken Motta, until stormwater talks interrupted that flow.

"At the end of the day, we reached what we believe is a satisfactory agreement," said O'Connell about stormwater system changes. "It's a pretty agreeable resolution to a minor conflict.... Other than that, the plans were satisfactory to Ken."

Chairman Arnold Johnson split up discussion into five categories: waivers, stormwater, decommissioning, (tree) thinning plan, and landscaping.

A number of waiver requests were withdrawn after some stormwater requirements were met without them, including satisfying Mass Department of Transportation entrance requirements and stormwater system design.

One issue of stormwater system setback from a neighboring septic tank leach field elicited a lengthy discussion and debate after it was discovered that the project did not, in fact, require Board of Health approval. Rather, it was within the purview of the Planning Board.

A stormwater collection structure is planned for about 100 feet from the leach field of the residence at 50 Dexter Lane. The BOH granted the waiver for a 100-foot setback; however, the BOH's regulations actually follow the State of Massachusetts' minimum of 50 feet. It is the Planning Board that requires 200 feet.

Johnson pointed out that Motta, the town's engineer, approved the setback after considering the groundwater mounding analysis. Having said that, though, board member Gary Florindo argued against it.

Florindo said his experience with cranberry bogs and their seasonal flooding was enough for him to determine that stormwater flow from the solar farm site would flood the neighboring leach field.

"Well, we're double the requirement from the state," said O'Connell. "And the Title 5 [requirements were] compiled by numerous scientists."

O'Connell continued, "People smarter than us created the Mass Title 5, the state sanitary code, and they say 50 feet. We're double that. So I'm going to sleep well at night with that design and I think everybody should sleep well at night."

Florindo took offense to O'Connell's putting thoughts into his head and he continued his argument against the waiver.

Susan Fleming, abutting resident and owner of said septic leach field, asked the board to stick with its 200-foot requirement, because, "Our house has been there for 160 years, and I think we should stick with the 200 feet in the books."

Florindo asked Fleming if she ever gets water in her basement. "Yes," she replied.

"When the bog is flooded, do you get more water in your basement?" Florindo asked Fleming.

"Yes," she replied.

"I object, your honor," said O'Connell. Several board members laughed before O'Connell lunged into his argument.

"If I was her, I'd say 'yes,' too," said O'Connell. "You can't make that connection."

"Are you suggesting that she's not telling the truth?" said Planning Board member Ben Bailey.

It was a long discussion that ensued, and O'Connell was forced to wade through the minutia of stormwater run-off and the semantics that went along with it as board members substituted the words "run-off" for "water concentration."

In the end, O'Connell told Florindo they would have to agree to disagree, but he reminded Florindo and the board that Motta, the town's own engineer, approved the plan and the 100-foot setback.

Johnson suggested holding off on the waiver for the stormwater system setback, and they finally moved on to the next category – stormwater. Having already discussed that at length to some degree, they moved on to decommissioning, which was short-lived since O'Connell was not prepared to discuss that on behalf of the applicant.

When it came to landscaping, Johnson said he objected to the plan's use of the Eastern red cedar, which he said was susceptible to "Cedar Apple Rust," a disease he said could affect neighboring apple trees.

Johnson added that he would not rely on the arbitrary decision of plant species of a landscape architect over common sense.

"Because screening," said Johnson, "is probably the most critical aspect of this project."

Conservation Commission member and Historical Commission member Laurene Gerrior mentioned that the project still had to comply with state regulations pertaining to the historic district, saying the project was subject to an intensive archeological study before breaking ground. Johnson wasn't digging that.

"In my opinion, it's discriminatory," said Johnson. He pointed out that Sperry Tents was not subjected to the same requirements. "If there is something in the ground that could be disturbed ... then it should be held accountable by every project in the neighborhood." He added, "I think the whole thing on that end is incorrect."

Besides, he added, the Natural Heritage & Endangered Species Program will not approve the project until requirements like these are satisfied. He called it the "failsafe," since the board has vowed not to approve the project until NHESP is through with its process.

Johnson set one specific condition on the project before continuing the public hearing until April 12 saying that before any tree was felled, the Planning Board would make a site visit to view flagged trees. Also, throughout the tree clearing, an engineer hired by the town would oversee the progress.

Johnson said a recent debacle in Middleboro pertaining to tree clearing at a project site prompted him to make the suggestion.

Because once the trees are gone, he said, they are

Override and OPEB Discussed

Rochester School Committee

By Marilou Newell

During the March 3 meeting of the Rochester School Committee, Chairman Tina Rood told members, "The piece about the override is not positive to everyone...."

Rood had recently attended the Old Rochester Regional school district budget meeting on February 29. That summit meeting included finance committee members and administrators from the Tri-Town. The possibility of a proposition 2½ override to offset the budget had been suggested by school committee members; however, it was not warmly received by the towns, she said.

"We only have property," Rood said in explaining how Rochester supports the schools' budgets, primarily through the assessment of real estate taxes. "It may be time to look at that override in addressing costs in a long term way and that our selectmen and administrator look at that for our schools," she continued. "It's time to consider what is right for our schools," she told the school committee members.

Superintendent Douglas White added, "The ability to raise funds are slim."

White said the towns were pushing the ORR district for OPEB (other post-employment benefits) planning. The looming financial specter of increasing post-employment commitment for those who have and will be retiring from the school system now stands at $15 million, White told the committee. "But we have little or no ability to fund that," he added.

Business Administrator Patrick Spencer said, "Five or ten years down the road these costs will come home to roost ... but we have no feasible way to fund them."

White said the FY17 ORR operating budget sits at $17.5 million, a 2.9 percent increase.

Rochester's local school budget stands at $5.9 million, Spencer said, a 2.4 percent increase.

Cut from the FY17 proposed budget is a health teacher, coupled with various cost-cutting strategies in the operating budget. Spencer also noted that the current $200,000 Chapter 70 surplus would be reduced to $70,000 in 2017.

Regarding the proposed 2017 school calendar, committee member Sharon Hartley stood firm in her resolve that half day scheduling was inefficient in both teaching students and giving teachers adequate time for training programs.

"Education suffers and full days are better for staff development," she said.

State to Test Air Quality at Sippican School

Marion School Committee

By Jean Perry

The state will test the indoor air quality of Sippican School to find the source of what could be exacerbating the allergies of some teachers and possibly some students, as previously discussed by the Marion School Committee and Marion Teachers Association and Health and Safety Committee member Nicole Boussy on February 3.

Results of testing conducted by the school district's Facilities Department in January reported air quality levels within the normal range; however, teachers insist further testing should be done.

During the March 2 meeting of the Marion School Committee, Facilities Director Gene Jones said a full air quality assessment has been scheduled for March 11. A team will arrive to take air quality samples throughout the school and the roof to test the ventilation system, as well as mold, mildew, and moisture levels, along with the presence of pests.

"And when they come through, they don't [take a] break," said Jones. "They just go through. There's no lunch break, no coffee break ... they'll go through the entire school."

Jones anticipates a two-week time period to receive a report on the state's findings.

In other matters, Superintendent Doug White presented an updated draft of the 2016/2017 school year calendar, which shifts a few half-days around to address concerns over a long stretch of time from March through April vacation without a single break. The Good Friday school day on April 14, 2017, which falls on the last day of school before the spring break, remains unchanged.

"In looking at it, there's three out of four school committees and four out of five buildings and the administration are all advocating for the 14th (Good Friday) off for a whole host of reasons," said School Committee member Christine Winters. "There's more an overwhelming consensus that it's probably not the best day for education in the district ... and I hope we can come together as a joint [school committee] ... and there's an open conversation about it."

School Committee Chairman Christine Marcolini said she hopes the district could move past the Good Friday issue finally.

"I'm definitely in the camp of 'I really wish that we could move on from spending a lot of time talking about Good Friday and I haven't made any qualms about that,'" said Marcolini. "That being said, I think that there's enough data from all the different stakeholders that the discussion does not need to be had again, whether we want to have it or not."

School Committee member Michelle Ouellette said the fact that Good Friday falls on the day before vacation adds to the concern.

Committee member Kate Houdelette said, "I also think that once this is done, then we're done. Next year, in two years it's not going to fall before the vacation and we spend more time discussing this one day than the kids go to school."

The next meeting of the Marion School Committee is scheduled for April 6 at 6:30 pm at the Marion Town House.

Seniors Take the (Class) Olympic Trophy

ORR Update

By Sienna Wurl

The energy at Old Rochester Regional High School on Friday, March 4, was palpable as students got excited for the Class Olympics held at a pep rally during the last hour and a half of the school day, in which students from every grade level competed in a series of games to get into the spirit for the basketball game held Saturday, March 5.

In order to allow time for the pep rally at the end of the day, the first three classes were shortened from their usual 90 minutes to about 60. The final class remained the same length in order to keep the lunch schedules running smoothly. Students were dismissed to the gym by grade at the end of the final class.

The first event to kick off the rally was a version of 'Pictionary,' in which contestants were given 30 seconds to draw a given object to the best of their ability. The panel of judges for the game included three teachers: Geoffrey White, Seth Bushnell, and Diane Palombo. The game began with a simple, school-spirited drawing: the bulldog. The talented freshmen took the victory for the first round. The topic for round two: draw your favorite ORR teacher, which the seniors took home for the win with an artful rendition of Mr. White. The final round required contestants to draw seniors Evan and Will Santos, affectionately referred to as 'The Santi Twins,' which the seniors won again, making them the champions for the Pictionary game.

Next came the three-point contest, which included one person from each grade. They were given 30 seconds to score as many three-point basketball shots as possible, with one other member of their grade catching the rebounds. The juniors and seniors tied for third-place with two baskets each, the freshmen came in second with three baskets, and sophomore Jason Gamache was the champion with a total of eight baskets.

The third event was the notoriously messy egg toss, in which students participated in pairs passing a raw egg back and forth from increasingly larger distances across the gym. When the egg cracked, the team was disqualified. After about a minute of stress-filled excitement, not to mention many broken eggs and a yolk-spattered floor, it was down to the final three. In the end, the sophomores came in third, the seniors in second, and juniors Jacob Caffarella and Tyler Moreau won the event.

Then there was the ever-popular donut eating contest, which is exactly as the name implies – contestants were required to eat a donut tied to a string as quickly as possible without using their hands. The judging for this became a little tricky, as the donuts began to fall off the strings as more of it was eaten. The students carried on, however, with a win from senior Nils Sünderhauf, an exchange student from Germany. In second came Amaya Bell for the freshmen, and in third was sophomore

A rather cut-throat round of musical chairs was up next on the list of events. Two contestants from each grade were selected, and music was played through the gym's sound system. Students were eliminated one by one as chairs were removed, until it was down to the final three: juniors Connor Farney and Ariane Dias and sophomore Ali Hulsebosch. Farney came in third, which left Dias and Hulsebosch to compete (literally duke it out with each other) to be the champion of musical chairs. When all was said and done, Dias scored the points for the juniors.

The second-to-last event was a relay with a twist. Six students from each grade volunteered to participate in one of the three parts that comprised the race. First, one student pushed another on a scooter board across the gym until they tagged another set of students who had to wheelbarrow-walk across the gym to yet another pair of students who had to run back and forth across the gym with their legs tied together (a three-legged race).

As the race began, it appeared the seniors had the event in the bag, as they had quite the lead in both the scooter and wheelbarrow parts of the race. In the three-legged dash, the junior team caught up to, and then surpassed, the senior runners. The lead was then passed back over to the seniors when the junior team took a tragic fall that left them behind the seniors for the rest of the race, sacrificing the victory of that event to the senior class. The juniors managed to pull in second place, and the freshmen were on the board in third.

And finally came the most anticipated event of the rally: the tug of war. Eight students from each grade participated, and the war worked championship-style. The first pairing was the freshmen versus the juniors, which yielded the juniors as the victors. Next up was the seniors versus the sophomores, in which the seniors successfully defeated the sophomores and moved on in a head-to-head battle with the juniors.

The seniors vs. juniors tug-of-war match was pretty evenly matched. The rope even remained in the same spot for quite some time. In the end, however, the juniors were able to channel their inner strength and win the "war."

When all was said and done, the points were tallied and the winners were announced. In fourth place came the freshmen, followed by the sophomores in third place, and the juniors ended up in second. The seniors won the Class Olympics and took home the prize of $100 to put in the class bank account, a trophy, and an ice cream social.

The rally ended about 20 minutes ahead of schedule, so students were released back to their previous class until the end of the school day.

performances of all of the athletes provide a spot of excitement in the cold months where snow and frigid temperatures prevent everyone from going outside. Recently, three of these teams made it to playoffs.

Boys' Hockey had an impressive season with 18 wins and 12 losses. They made it to the post-season championship, but unfortunately lost to Thayer in the first round of playoffs.

Boys' Basketball, with a record of 16 wins and seven losses, made it to playoffs and advanced to the semi-finals against Exeter, where they lost a very close game.

Both Girls' and Boys' Squash had great seasons, with Boys' advancing to Nationals. Aly Hussein, Tabor's top player, was nearly undefeated until his last match.

Girls' Basketball, in an incredibly impressive season, had 20 wins and two losses, both of which were to Nobles. They made it to the finals where they finished up their season with a great game. Though they didn't win the championship, the strength of the team is evident in their camaraderie and their skill.

Girls' Basketball demonstrates amazing senior leadership, with nine seniors graduating this year. They chose not to elect captains, but rather had the seniors lead the team. Their amazing talent and dedication exemplifies the ideal of Tabor sports. Mr. Becker, the coach, describes them simply as a "great group of girls," underlying their work ethic and perseverance. This sentiment is echoed from many coaches about their teams, and seniors in general.

The amount of Division 1 commits in the senior class is unprecedented, but there is also a lot of talent amongst underclassmen as well.

Two underclassmen from the Boys' Hockey team, Max Suave and Jeremy Côté, are already committed to college. Many Tabor students – seniors and underclassmen alike – have left incredibly lasting impacts on their teams.

As seniors play their last games of the winter season, they look back on their time on their Tabor teams with fondness. Athletic Director Dick Muther always emphasizes the importance of sports for character-building and learning teamwork. These traits are evident not only in the teams at Tabor, but also in the spectators.

Perhaps the greatest testament to the strength of the teams is the strength of the fans. Crowds of Tabor students can be spotted at every game, and over 90 students took a bus to Nobles to watch Girls' Basketball's final game.

Students jump at the chance to show their school spirit and support their fellow Seawolves, and this sense of community is infectious. Whether winning or losing, the Seawolves always show up to support each other.

ORR Sports Update

By Patrick Briand

Only two teams competed this week as state tournament play began and the track team took a rare break from competition. The boys' hockey team was unfortunately knocked off in the first round of the state playoffs, but that shouldn't detract from their fantastic season and positive outlook for the future. Boys' basketball won their opening-round playoff game against Carver, but was toppled by Apponequet in the second round, thus ending their season. However, it was a very successful campaign for ORR, who looks to be back next year in the hunt for another State Championship trophy to go along with their 2015 title. Next week, the boys' and girls' shuttle hurdles relay teams will be at the New Boys' Basketball: On Thursday, the Bulldogs opened up their state tournament run against Carver at home. The boys were able to easily defeat the Crusaders 82-60, leading by as much as 30 at one point. They set the tone by outscoring Carver 25-11 in the first quarter. Junior center Matt Valles had a big game, scoring 17 and pulling down nine rebounds, as well as five assists. Senior guard Evan Santos also scored 17, while senior Jared Nye was the third-leading scorer, with a season-high 8 points. Eleven different players scored as the bench got a chance to play some extensive minutes in the fourth. ORR stayed at home on Saturday to take on rival Apponequet, one of the few teams who had been able to defeat them this year.

The game was close throughout, and despite being down 17-11 after the first eight minutes, the 'Dogs closed to 42-41 with eight minutes left to play. Apponequet, however, prevented the Bulldogs from getting anything major going on offensively in the fourth and held on to win, 68-63. It was a disappointing end to what was another great season from the Bulldogs. Senior Will Santos ended his last season by scoring 13 points, which led the team. Junior big man Grant Reuter scored a season-high 12, while Will's brother, Evan, added 11 and Valles scored 9. Despite losing the Santos brothers, the Bulldogs figure to ride Valles, Reuter, sophomore Jason Gamache, and juniors Russell Noonan, Jacob Cafarella, and Patrick Cummings to victory next season, as they look to re-establish themselves as the premier D-3 team in the State. Three other seniors played their last game on Saturday: Nye, Bryant Salkind, and Jon O'Connor.

Boys' Ice Hockey: The Fairhaven/ORR squad started off tournament play at home (The Travis Roy Rink at Tabor Academy) on Tuesday against Dover-Sherborn. A back-and-forth battle ensued as the Bulldogs/Blue Devils looked to advance to the second round of the state tournament, something they have not been able to do in recent years. The team received a goal from ORR freshman Chase Lapworth early on, and the game was tied 1-1 at the end of the first. ORR junior Sam Henrie erupted for a huge game, scoring a pair of goals in the second and another in the third. Dover-Sherborn hung tough, responding to all his goals, and tying the game at 4 with one minute left in regulation. In OT, they scored to end the Bulldog/Blue Devils' season, with the final score coming in at 5-4. ORR junior Landon Gougen had three assists, and ORR senior captain Kam Silvia added two. Three seniors – Silvia, ORR's Harry Terpeny, and Fairhaven's Ben Pinard – are graduating, but the team still boasts a terrific young nucleus that should make them competitive in the SCC for years to come, and they should make more noise in the state tournament in future seasons. Among the stars returning next season are Henrie, Lapworth, junior goalie Chase Cunningham (ORR), junior Connor Kelly (ORR) and Fairhaven sophomores Ryan LaBonte and Ryan Raphael.

To the Editor:

I am a concerned resident of the Mattapoisett Housing Authority apartments at Village Court. For the past several months, I have been listening to the Housing Authority Board members reasons why the implementation of a no smoking policy has not been able to move forward. Blame has been placed on the "state" and the Boston Department of Community Housing Development. It has recently come to my attention that several other Housing authorities have implemented such a ban. They include Worcester, Fitchburg and New Bedford.

Besides the fact that smoking is a health hazard, we recently had a waste basket fire caused by an improperly disposed cigarette which forced residents into the cold weather. It could have been worse and heaven forbid, it could happen again and spread into other parts of the building!

I am not sure why the Housing Authority Board is dragging this out ... perhaps it is their lack of concern since all, but for one member, reside in this community!

If other Authorities can work "diligently" on passing smoking bans, I can only wonder why this Authority cannot do the same? I do not wish to be subjected to second-hand smoke and neither do I wish the same for the elderly residents of Village Court!

Respectfully,

Stephanie Mitchell, Mattapoisett

Apparently, the requested foot plus expansion closer to Water Street that would allow a massively significant increase of six seats to their front porch seating area has been well received by the Town, patrons, and neighbors alike ... except for one. families who did not wish to leave the Tri-Town and go to Fairhaven for soccer. Last year, the founding family of the Oceaner's club wanted to retire and asked the Marion Recreation Department to step in and take over the program. Marion Recreation worked with the Town of Rochester to create the Marion Rochester Youth Soccer (MRYS) league so our families would continue to have a choice where to play. It has been a learning curve in this inaugural year, yet we had a strong fall program with over 400 kids participating. For those kids that wanted more competition, we fielded three travel teams. This spring, we have organized more travel teams and are enthusiastic about our soccer future in both our Rec and Travel teams.

A goal of the Marion Recreation Department was to find a local soccer travel league that is convenient, competitive, and age- and ability-appropriate for our kids. We petitioned to join SouthCoast Soccer League (SCSL), with the attempt to keep our children playing in our local geographical area. In September 2015, our initial appeal to join was denied. At that time, we opted to join another travel league, MAPL (Mass Premier League) so our travel teams could enjoy the travel experience. The challenge with MAPL is that our children travel a long distance to play, instead of competing in neighboring towns or islands. For example, our U9 Girls travel team had to go to Connecticut for a regular season league game.

We feel playing locally with choices is better for all involved. We believe in this so much that we have written in our MRYS Constitution that any child may play in any travel or recreational club, anywhere, regardless of where they live. We expressed this to SCSL and all the area soccer programs. We have written it clearly into our constitution that MRYS will always grant a blanket unbinding waiver to any child that seeks to play in another club. It is our belief that the game of soccer, at this elementary level, affects not only the child playing but the family as well. This is why we are appealing to join the Southcoast Soccer League. It is local.

We would like to set the record straight given the confusion or misinformation being passed around by some. The choice to play with any club at any time is still there. No one but a parent can decide where the child may play. It has been stated that your choice will be taken away. It will not.

Marion Rochester Youth Soccer has the best interest of the children and their families at the core of its principles. It is what governs our actions and is our guiding principle. We petition to the SCSL to gain access for local travel play ONLY. Waivers to play anywhere will be forever granted to any child requesting it. We will continue to provide a first class youth soccer program for our children.

the Pulitzer Prize, "Crimes of the Heart" continues to delight audiences. A little bit Chekhov and a little bit Eudora Welty, it tells a twangy story of three Southern sisters loving, feuding and fussing through a very bad day. The scene is Hazlehurst, Mississippi, where the three Magrath sisters have gathered to await news of the family patriarch, their grandfather, who is living out his last hours in the local hospital. Lenny, the oldest sister (played by Kim Teves) is unmarried and facing diminishing marital prospects; Meg, the middle sister (played by Susan Massey) who quickly outgrew Hazlehurst, is back after a failed singing career on the West Coast; while Babe, the youngest (played by Linda Landry), is out on bail after having shot her husband in the stomach. Their troubles, grave and yet, somehow, hilarious, are highlighted by their priggish cousin, Chick (played by Suzie Kokkins), and by the awkward lawyer, Barnette Lloyd (played by Thom O'Shaughnessy) who tries to keep Babe out of jail while helpless not to fall in love with her. In the end, the play is the story of how its characters escape the past to seize the future – but the telling is so true and touching and consistently hilarious that it will linger in the mind long after the curtain has descended.

The theater will be set up with general seating as well as eight cabaret tables which are available for reserved parties of four. Reservations are highly recommended for this show! Tickets are $15 for the public and $12.50 for MAC members. For more information or to

MOVIE REVIEW

Two Dimensions

By Rob Gonsalves
www.robsmovievault.com

The Prophet*. With the voices of Liam Neeson and Salma Hayek. Directed by Roger Allers. Running time: 86 minutes. MPAA rating: PG.

Does everything need to be a movie? Even the staunchest film buff might wonder from time to time. Some material -- a book, a comic, a Broadway show, a concept album -- is perfectly content to stay what it is and not get amped up and dumbed down to placate the multiplexers. The enduringly popular The Prophet, a book of spiritual prose poetry by the Lebanese-American writer Kahlil Gibran, might seem to be that kind of material. Like the Ancient Mariner, its titular protagonist stops and talks to random listeners; unlike the Mariner, the Prophet, Al-Mustafa, relates no compelling narrative, but a series of ruminations on life, death, love, work, and so on. Movies were made out of comparable '60s dorm-room faves such as Jonathan Livingston Seagull and The Little Prince, but Gibran's work has for almost a century seemed happy enough to exist as a pocket-size book.

Now there is an animated film "inspired by" The Prophet, and its driving force is co-producer Salma Hayek, who has Lebanese roots on her father's side. The film is a personal project for Hayek, who also voices a character in the movie, a character that, like most others onscreen, does not actually figure in Gibran's book. No matter. Hayek has clearly undertaken this project because she wants it to reach children in some way, even in somewhat watered-down and very abbreviated form (the script often just paraphrases Gibran, and only eight of the book's 26 poems are tackled). And even the least generous viewer might have to admit, it could have been a lot worse. One shudders at the thought of a Disneyfied Al-Mustafa (shortened here to Mustafa) belting show tunes ("Your Children Are Not Your Children," by Adam Levine ft. Lorde).

We sort of get a Disney version anyway, because writer-director Roger Allers, who helmed The Lion King, devises a framing sequence that seems a bit Aladdin-y, complete with young heroine Almitra running all around a street bazaar in a typical boisterous Disney opener to hook the kids. Once the movie settles down, it improves. Almitra, who hasn't spoken since her father died, accompanies her mother Kamila (Hayek) to a remote spot where the poet Mustafa (Liam Neeson) is under house arrest for seditious poetry. Kamila goes there every day to clean house, but Mustafa is freed, and on his way to the ship that will carry him home he meets various people whom he favors with his insights on life, death, love, work, and so on.

It's here that The Prophet becomes a sampler of work from animators the world over, from Nina Paley (Sita Sings the Blues) to Bill Plympton (The Tune) to Joann Sfar (The Rabbi's Cat) to Tomm Moore (The Secret of Kells). A lot of this stuff is elegant, imaginative, first-rate (although my issue with Plympton as a guy who does animation to show off how clever he is -- a sort of Alejandro Gonzalez Iñárritu of cartoons -- persists here). The visualizations of Gibran's concepts are sometimes so arresting that I, for one, lost track of what narrator Neeson was saying -- not an effect Gibran would have wanted.

Viewed as part of the continuum of animation history, a work whose ancestors include Fantasia and, structurally, Heavy Metal (in which a girl is told stories by a glowing green ball), The Prophet works much better. The "in" to the more abstract and experimental sections is the bland Allers-designed frame, with such uninspired touches as Mustafa's affable guard Halim (John Krasinski) harboring a crush on Kamila. I know it's there to ease Disney/Pixar-reared kids into the good stuff, but every time an interlude finished and we trudged back into dull Allers territory, I could feel myself deflate and my attention slacken. The ideal presentation of Gibran's work is still to be found on bookshelves worldwide (or perhaps in the 1974 album, read by Richard Harris), but as a calling card for eight indie animators, it gets the job done.

Reynard Hall at the Mattapoisett Congregational Church, 27 Church Street. Our program will feature a talk about coastal waterbirds, including the roseate tern, by Kathy Parsons, Ph.D., Director, Coastal Waterbird Program, Mass Audubon.

Mass Audubon's Coastal Waterbird Program is one of the most effective entities working to protect coastal birds and barrier beaches in New England. Launched in 1987 in response to declining populations of piping plovers and terns in Massachusetts, their primary objective is protecting these species' nesting areas throughout the state. During 2015, the Coastal Waterbird Program protected threatened coastal birds through management and education at 175 sites along 140 miles of the Massachusetts coastline. Their staff installed protective fencing and signage, monitored nesting activity, provided educational opportunities for beachgoers, and engaged land owners in coastal habitat protection. In addition, 75 volunteers provided essential support to the program working within local communities. The program is also instrumental in the protection of roseate terns during the months after breeding when the birds are preparing for migration.

Today, the Coastal Waterbird Program advocates for the protection of the entire coastal ecosystem and serves as a model for integrated coastal resource management.

its inaugural Saturday Service at 5:00 pm on March 5. Lee Dougall welcomed all who came to worship at this family-friendly, contemporary, casual service. She drew attention to a banner of Minister's Rock portraying the very beginning of this church, which said, "From These Roots Our Church Grows, Minister's Rock 1683."

The Rev. Dr. Sheila Rubdi, minister of The First Congregational Church of Marion, provided a message of grace, gifts and gratitude. She professed that the most profound spiritual act is to teach people to be grateful. Life is a gift.

Joyce Jacobsen played the piano as voices young and old were raised in rousing songs. Worshipers gathered around the communion table as Rev. Dale Thackeray administered the sacraments and led the Lord's Prayer. Refreshments and fellowship followed the service.

This contemporary service is held each Saturday at 5:00 pm at The First Congregational Church of Marion Community Center, 144 Front Street (rear of parking lot). In addition, each Sunday at 10:00 am there is a service in the Sanctuary located at 28 Main Street. All are welcome at each of these services.

On March 12, the guest preacher at the Saturday Service will be Rev. Liz Brimm of Mattapoisett, and on March 19, Rev. Warren "Buddy" Washburn of Marion will preach.

SALOME'S STARS

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) You might feel more encouraged about changes in your personal and/or professional life. However, it might be best not to rush things but rather work with them as they evolve.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) The Bovine's business sense is especially keen this week. But remember that it's always best to investigate before investing. Make sure there are no hidden factors that can rise up later on.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Working on a family project could create tension between and among those concerned. Your good sense and your patience can help reduce bad attitudes and raise positive feelings.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) You should be seeing more progress in the development of your plans and more supporters joining in. News from the past could help change someone's long-held position.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) With personal aspects strong this week, Leos and Leonas might want to spend more time with family and others who are especially close to them. Also expect news of a possible career change.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Taking a strong stand can be helpful this week. But be careful you don't cross the line into obstinacy. Best to take a position on facts as they are, not as you want them to be.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) You have a strong sense of the needs of others. This week, turn some of that sensitivity into an honest self-appraisal, and let it find places where you can help yourself.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Creating an emotional comfort zone to handle a personal problem helps at first. But by midweek, you'll realize you need to deal with it directly or it could linger for too long.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Turning the page on a mistake to start fresh might not be the thing to do. Better to go over each step that led up to the decision you made and see which one misled you.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Goats enjoy a varied diet, but eating crow isn't on the menu -- at least not this week. An embarrassing situation might have gone wrong before you got into it. Check it out.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Your sense of honesty might impel you to speak up about a situation you disapprove of. That's fine. But do so without sounding accusatory. You might not know all the facts behind it.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Being asked to create a reassuring attitude in the middle of chaos isn't easy, but you can do it. Support for your efforts comes slowly, but it does come. Enjoy an arts-filled weekend.

BORN THIS WEEK: Your honesty about people and issues is expressed in a positive, not painful, way.

weekend for Game 2 of the playoffs. Late in the first period, Thomas Clavell skated through Walpole's lines strong and shot the puck right past the goalie's blocker, with an assist from Matthew Paling that helped get Gateway on the board. In the second, Ty David Ribeiro netted two goals, one unassisted and another assisted by Paling. In the third period, Gateway started the period behind by two goals, knowing that they needed to step up their game and find the back of the net. With defensive teamwork, Paling was able to score two unassisted goals that helped to tie the game 5-5 with only a few minutes left to go, but Walpole was able to score one more goal, which gave them the 6-5 playoff win.

GNBCS 2016 Spring Concert

Greater New Bedford Choral Society, with conductor Gerald P. Dyck and accompanist Chris Ricci, will present its Spring Concert on Sunday, May 22 at 7:00 pm at Grace Episcopal Church in New Bedford. The program consists of three choral works composed by Director Dyck: The Beatitudes of Jesus, Lines from Tennyson's Ulysses, and The Rubaiyat of Omar Khayyam. Joining the chorus will be soprano Elizabeth Heath and baritone Gabriel Alfieri. It will be the farewell concert of our accompanist of nineteen years, Chris Ricci, who will play Albinoni's poignant Adagio on the pipe organ. $15 tickets are available at the door, from any chorus member, or online at www.gnbcs.org. Children 12 and under accompanying an adult are admitted free of charge.

St. Pat's at the Mattapoisett Library

Get in the spirit of St. Patrick's Day at the Mattapoisett Free Public Library on Sunday, March 13 at 2:00 pm when the NEIHO returns to flood the reading rooms with traditional Irish music. Whether it's toe-tapping dance tunes, slow airs, or soulful ballads, you will experience beautifully orchestrated music for many harps, voices, whistles, and always a few surprises. The event, part of the library's Purrington Series, is sponsored by the Mattapoisett Library Trust.

The New England Irish Harp Orchestra has played throughout New England and in Ireland. Last summer, 10 members of the orchestra traveled to Ireland for a cultural trip and played concerts in Killarney and the week-long music festival in Limerick with 54 other harpists from all over Europe. They also offered a children's concert for an audience of 300 at the Kennedy Library in Boston. When the NEIHO played at the Mattapoisett Library in December of 2014, it was standing room only and then some for their beautiful music and vivacious step dancing.

Seating is limited. Reservations may be made by calling 508-758-4171 or emailing mfpl@sailsinc.org.

The concert is free and will last approximately one and a half hours. The library, located at 7 Barstow Street, is handicapped accessible. Additional parking is available on the wharf, one block from the library.

Marion Recreation Drawing

You could win a free week of Challenger Soccer Camp, July 25-29, or a one-week Silvershell Summer Program.

The newly-formed Friends of Marion Recreation Soccer announces a plan to fund the purchase of new soccer nets for our growing soccer program! With a need for new soccer nets at a cost of over $2,800 for all the nets needed, it was decided to host a drawing to help fund the cost. Cost of the drawing is $5 per ticket or a book of five for $20. The winner of the drawing will be announced at the end of the Health Fair sponsored by the Recreation Department on April 9. Prior to that, tickets may be purchased at the Recreation Department, 13 Atlantis Drive, at the Town Hall Conservation Office, or by mailing your check to Jill Pitman at the Atlantis Drive office. If you choose to mail your check, Jill will fill out your tickets and send you a receipt for your donation.

The winning ticket holder will have the choice of a free week of Challenger Soccer Camp at Dexter Field in Rochester, July 25-29 (a value of $188), or a week of camp at the Silvershell Summer Program (a value of $175)!

Thank you in advance for your help with our NET GAIN Drawing.

Mattapoisett Land Trust Scholarship

The Mattapoisett Land Trust again offers the $1,000 Blanche B. Perry, Scholarship, an award offered to a resident senior graduating by June 2016 from secondary school pursuing an education in the study of environmental sciences or a related field, which covers a wide perspective without specializing. The candidate will be able to meet the scholarship requirements by studying sciences such as Biology, Mathematics, Technology, or Engineering and yet not limited to those specific fields.

The scholarship is consistent with the MLT mission of preserving land in order to enrich the quality of life for present and future generations. The scholarship is made available through the Edith Glick Shoolman fund, a bequest left to The Mattapoisett Land Trust to provide support for children in the community.

UCT College Fair

Upper Cape Tech welcomes area high school students and their parents/guardians to attend the annual UCT College Fair on Thursday, March 24 from 6:30 to 8:00 pm.

Approximately 70 colleges, technical schools, and military representatives will be available to meet with interested students about post-secondary opportunities and admissions requirements. Counselors will be present to assist students with identifying appropriate institutions and navigating the fair. The event is most appropriate for 10th and 11th grade students, as well as seniors who may still be exploring their options for next year.

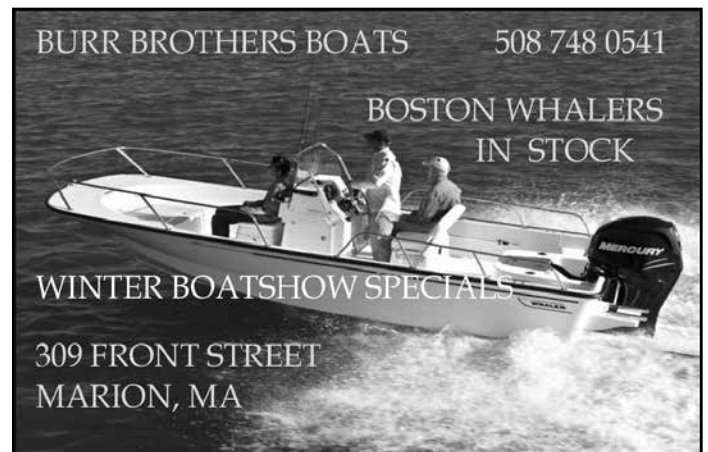

Additionally, several institutions will offer "on the spot" admissions interviews for current seniors between 4:00 and 6:00 pm. This opportunity is open to all area high school seniors who have not yet decided on a college for next fall. Students may make appointments or walk-in.

Detailed information, including a list of participating institutions for both the fair and the "on the spot" program, is available on the Upper Cape Tech website. Please visit www.uppercapetech.com/guidance and select the link for the UCT College Fair.

There is no cost to attend the fair. Questions may be directed to Jennifer McGuire at jmcguire@uppercapetech.org or 508-759-7711 ext. 247.
